Allan Madsen (b. 1952)

Allen Madsen is a renowned artist whose intricate oil paintings have attracted an international following. The realism of his still-life subjects in conjunction with stylistic background abstraction creates a fascinating dialogue in his artwork, interpolating the artistic relationship between subject and object. This arises from the artist's fascination with the Japanese concept of negative space, Ma. As such, his use of alluring compositions and abstract textures creates an introspective viewing experience. Madsen is inspired by the Dutch Masters Vermeer and Rembrandt, particularly their command of draughtsmanship.
